PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT NEWSLETTER

NOTES FROM THE CHAIR - DR. ALYCIA M. HUND

Welcome to the 2025-2026 edition of Department of Psychology newsletter. This has been a busy and productive year in our department, marked by excellence in teaching, research, and service. We are proud to serve as the academic home for 1,000 undergraduate and graduate students. Our undergraduate program is the 4th largest major at ISU, and we consistently graduate the most minors. Our graduate programs are strong and diverse. We seek to focus on student success and to foster collaboration in our work together.

Psychology is fortunate to have an amazing faculty and staff, including 30 tenure-track faculty, 13 part-time and 1 full-time nontenure-track faculty, and 9 staff members. We were pleased to welcome Dr. Alex Tatum and Dr. Kyla Cary as Assistant Professors and Dr. Emily Morrow as Director of the Psychological Services Center in August 2025. We are excited to welcome Dr. Lakhvir Kaur (School Psychology) as an Assistant Professor in Fall 2026. Dr. Jordan Arellanes was promoted to Associate Professor with tenure, and Dr. Dan Lannin was promoted to Professor. Dr. Dan Lannin, Dr. Caitlin Mercier, and Dr. Jordan Arellanes received prestigious college and university awards. We celebrated with Dr. Matthew Hesson-McInnis as he retired in December 2025 and with Dr. Tom Critchfield as he retired in June 2026. Our department achieved Green Workplace Certification through ISU's Office of Sustainability. We wrote our first department workload policy. We put forward many new course proposals and revised curriculum offerings to better meet student needs, focusing on AI and Psychology, Cultural Psychology: Asian/Asian American Psychology, Health Psychology, Psycholinguistics, and Psychology Travel Studies. We continued to champion our student food pantry, including expanding to provide toiletry items and meal kits for breaks. Our clinics provided 2,300 hours of direct service and 269 hours of consultation, along with training, screening, diagnostics, and supervision. Our faculty and staff secured $704,335 in grants and contracts in support of scholarship and service. We held our inaugural Fifth Thursday Colloquium Series, welcoming three guest presenters from diverse fields to share with our students, faculty, and staff.

We have much to look forward to in the year ahead. 2026 marks 60 years since our establishment as a department. Preparations are well underway to celebrate this milestone and to we welcome our new psychology majors and graduate students in the fall, along with Dr. Kaur. We plan to continue our discussion of undergraduate curriculum, providing additional options for students pursuing various career and graduate school paths. We are excited to offer our first study abroad opportunity to Japan. We will join the university and college in updating our ASPT documents. We will lean into the new budget model and think strategically about ways in which psychology can continue to thrive and grow with additional support. And we will continue to celebrate the success of our students, faculty, and staff, along with our alumni and community partners. Thank you for your continued support.

Curriculum Updates & Plans

Our department has been very busy creating new classes! Courses that have been approved or are in the process of being approved this past year include PSY 270-Introduction to Artificial Intelligence and Psychology, PSY 327A04-Cultural Psychology: Asian/Asian American Psychology, PSY 348-Health Psychology, PSY 369-Psycholinguistics, PSY 377-Travel Studies in Psychology, and PSY 449-Advanced Topics in Quantitative Psychology. In addition, the university is rolling out a new General Education program in 2027. This version contains categories that focus on types of skills (like effective communication, thinking quantitatively, and exploring how people function in society) instead of traditional academic disciplines. A few familiar courses like Fundamentals of Psychology, Social Psychology, and Reasoning in Psychology Using Statistics will be joined by one of our new courses, Introduction to Artificial Intelligence and Psychology, in the upcoming General Education program.

The Department of Psychology also is starting to explore ways to update the undergraduate major. The last time we went through this process was about two decades ago, so we are excited to think what the major could look like in the coming years. One possibility is to offer at least two sequences to provide more flexibility for students who may want to tailor their educational experiences to fit their post-ISU educational and professional goals. We look forward to sharing more details about these changes as they come into focus.

Out of Class Experiences

Through a variety of out-of-class experiences, undergraduate and graduate students gain knowledge and skills while contributing to the mission of community organizations and to faculty members' research and teaching. Over the 2025-26 academic year, undergraduates participated in 2 independent studies, 238 research apprenticeships, 95 teaching apprenticeships, 15 peer mentoring experiences, and 36 professional practice experiences. Graduate students participated in 26 independent study experiences, 19 research apprenticeships, 6 teaching apprenticeships, and 36 professional practice/internship experiences. Undergraduate and graduate students engaged in internships and professional practices at multiple agencies around the Bloomington-Normal and Central Illinois areas.

Graduate Program Updates

We are excited to announce that the two Social Psychology faculty – Dr. Kelly Clemens and Dr. Eric Wesselman will be joining the CxP sequence soon. CxP was proud to host a guest speaker as part of our Professional Development Seminar – Dr. Jack Duff from UCLA, hosted by Dr. Allison Nguyen. We are excited to welcome back CxP alumni, Dr. Drew Abney (Associate Professor of Psychology and Associate Head, Behavioral and Brain Sciences Program, University of Georgia) who will be recognized by the Department of Psychology for winning the Early Career Alumni Award. We are also pleased to share that CxP alum Tyler Duffrin has recently completed a Ph.D. in Human Factors Psychology from Clemson University.

Cognitive-Experimental

Developmental

Dr. Laura Finan completed her first year as Coordinator of the Developmental Psychology sequence, and will be taking sabbatical in Fall 2026, with Dr. Greg Braswell serving as coordinator during her leave. We welcomed alumna, Dr. Kyla Cary, back to the Department as an Assistant Professor. Dr. Jordan Arellanes and Dr. Jackie Cerda-Smith were both honored with faculty awards. In August, we welcomed three first-year students to the sequence, and our two second-year students graduated in May.

The IOS sequence is grateful to several alumni and guests who shared their time and expertise by talking with our students in person or on Zoom in the past year: Dr. Alex Barelka (ISU-College of Business), Tom Carroll (ISU-Nursing), Kelly Carty (State Farm), Michael Charles (ISU-Psychology), Elizabeth Fenger (Rivian), Amy Huber (Pinsight), Miranda Maher (Warner Bros. Discovery) and Dr. Eric Wesselmann (ISU-Psychology). Special thanks to Josh Rohlfs (State Farm) for his continuous support of our sequence.

Dr. Jef Kahn completed his first year as Coordinator of the Quantitative Psychology sequence. The sequence welcomed one new student and six dual-sequence students from the Industrial/Organizational-Social Psychology and Cognitive and Experimental Psychology sequences.

Industrial/ Organizational-Social & Quantitative

Clinical-Counseling

We were delighted to welcome Dr. Alex Tatum to the CCP program in Fall 2025, when he joined the Department as an Assistant Professor. In Fall 2025, we also welcomed a new cohort of 10 CCP students. Two of those entering students – Ashley Hintz and Mitchell White – each received one of the very competitive ISU Foundation Fellowships, while Melanie Gomez received a Merit Scholarship. Two CCP faculty received University awards: Dr. Dan Lannin (Outstanding Researcher) and Dr. Caitlin Mercier (Teaching Initiative). Dr. Suejung Han has been promoted to Professor effective August 2026.

We were proud to honor Clinical Psychology alum Tom Carroll as the Department recipient of the Lifetime Achievement Alumnus Award, and to present Kim Martin-Corcoran with the CCP Practicum Supervisor Award and Bryan Hinman with an Impact Award. We are grateful to the following agencies for hosting 1st- and 2nd-year practicum students at their sites: Chestnut Health Systems, Heritage Behavioral Health Center, and The Center for Youth and Family Solutions. Many CCP faculty and students presented at the MPA conference in Chicago in April 2026, and Dr. Dan Lannin and 1st-year student Ashley Hintz presented at the European Conference on Positive Psychology in Dublin, Ireland in July 2026. Alum Erik Harris received the Doug Lamb CCP Thesis Award, and Caitlyn Donnelly (2nd-year student) received the Charter Department Graduate Student Excellence Award. Six CCP students graduated in May 2026, while three more are on track to graduate in August 2026. Congratulations to all for their achievements and accomplishments!

In August, we welcomed twelve first-year students (5 Ph.D., 7 SSP) to the School Psychology programs and Dr. Emily Morrow began as the Director of the Psychological Services Center. Dr. Adena Meyers served as Interim Coordinator during the Fall 2026 semester as Dr. Banks was on sabbatical. As part of Homecoming, it was a pleasure to welcome back alumni award winner, Dr. Dan Gadke. We also held an alumni panel and a tailgate as part of Homecoming celebrations. In the spring, we hosted the 29th Annual School Psychology Institute and gathered with students, alumni, and friends at NASP in Chicago, where we presented multiple poster and paper sessions. In May, we celebrated as three Ph.D. students and six Specialist students were recognized at Commencement. We will miss six Ph.D. students and one Specialist student who will be off-campus for internship for the 2026-2027 academic year.

Restorative Culture: Building and Sustaining Communities of Care

Annie Buth

The Department of Psychology and the Graduate Programs in School Psychology hosted the 29th Annual School Psychology Institute on April 17, 2026. The morning workshop offered professional development for area practitioners and our graduate students and faculty. It focused on the development of school-based restorative culture through practices and strategies that foster trust, positive relationships, belonging, and healing. Restorative culture encompasses community building, restorative practices, and relational approaches to addressing harm. Through experiential learning, reflection, and dialogue, participants deepened their understanding of foundational restorative values and skills. The workshop leaders were Annie Buth, Clinical Associate Professor at Northwestern University Pritzker School of Law and Co-Director of the Center on Negotiation, Mediation, and Restorative Justice (CNMRJ), and Parrish Brown Jr., an approved Chicago Public Schools vendor and Restorative Organizer with Good Lookin Out LLC. The afternoon colloquium focused on restorative justice praxis and the evolving landscape of school-based restorative justice. Restorative culture offers a framework for nurturing school ecologies grounded in connection and relational engagement. A whole-school model provides opportunities not only for addressing harm but also creating normative change that builds communities of care, accountability, safety, and dignity.

Parrish Brown Jr.

School Psychology Alumni Day Panel

On October 17th, 2025, School Psychology hosted their annual Alumni Day Panel, featuring three graduates from the program, who shared about their career paths and answered questions from current School Psychology students. This year's panelists were Daniel Gadke, Ph.D. from Mississippi State University, Amanda March, Ph.D., NCSP from the University of South Florida & Rise and Align Consulting, and Erica Ranade, SSP, BCBA from the University of Louisville.

Food & Hygiene Product Bank

The Climate & Diversity Committee has been facilitating a student food/hygiene product bank for both graduate and undergraduate students in psychology. This bank is a grassroots effort supplied by personal donations from psychology faculty and staff. This year, committee member Dr. Allison Nguyễn developed a special “meal kit” program for Fall break and Finals Week, providing students with established ingredients and recipes to support students during these transitional and stressful times.

Green Team Certification

Thanks to the efforts of our Workplace Green Leader, Kelly Harman, and the rest of the Psychology Green Team, the Department of Psychology has earned the Green Workplace Certification

The Certification consists of steps that help your campus office assess sustainability initiatives and can further sustainability goals of Illinois State University as well as encourage faculty, staff, and students to continue eco-friendly practices at home, too. The Green Workplace Certification is comprised of 50 “green” tasks within six categories. At least 30 tasks must be completed to achieve the certification. All task items in the Required category must be completed and at least one task for each of the other five categories must be completed.

Remember, we have the power to help reduce the environmental impact our campus has on the planet. Small actions can make a big difference when we work collectively. By becoming Green Workplace Certified, you help our campus achieve goals set out by the Sustainability Strategic Plan and realize the vision and values of our campus strategic plan.

Alumni Relations Board

The Alumni Relations Board held its first full board meeting in October 2025 and a second meeting in April 2025. It includes 24 members who are alumni from each of the graduate programs/sequences and the undergraduate program, current undergraduate and graduate students, faculty and staff, and friends of the department. Dr. Alycia Hund and Ms. Amanda DeVore serve as co-chairs.

The Board has several purposes, including assisting the department in achieving its mission, providing input on what employers view as critical skills in graduates, facilitating communication with alumni, serving as guest speakers and mentors, highlighting professional opportunities in psychology and related fields, promoting fundraising, planning and promoting alumni activities during homecoming and throughout the year, and helping to share our psychology stories. Already, the Board has participated in our Alumni Spotlight to help tell our psychology alumni stories and helped expand our participation in our day of giving by serving as ambassadors for Birds Give Back. They will hold two alumni panel discussions next year to interact with current students. Plans also are underway to develop mentoring opportunities and to help with our 60th anniversary celebration. Stay tuned for more details.

2025 Department of Psychology Alumni of the Year Awardees

Alumnus of the Year: Early Career

Daniel L. Gadke

Daniel L. Gadke, Ph.D., is a Professor of School Psychology at Mississippi State University, serving as Department Head of Counseling, Higher Education Leadership, Educational Psychology and Foundations, and Associate Dean for Research in the College of Education. A licensed psychologist and Board-Certified Behavior Analyst, he co-founded MSU's Autism and Developmental Disabilities Clinic. He earned his B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. from Illinois State University and completed his postdoctoral training at Kennedy Krieger Institute.

Alumnus of the Year: Lifetime Achievement

Tom Carroll

Thomas (Tom) Carroll received his B.S. in Psychology at Illinois State University in 1984 and his M.S. in Clinical Psychology at Illinois State University in 1989. While he was an ISU student and after his graduation, Mr. Carroll held clinical positions in the Bloomington-Normal area at both The Baby Fold and BroMenn Healthcare and then from 1995 to 2017, he served in various positions at R.R. Donnelley, a global Fortune 500 company based in Chicago. Since 2018, Mr. Carroll has been serving as an Instructional Assistant Professor in the Mennonite College of Nursing at Illinois State University. Throughout his career, Mr. Carroll has been actively involved in a wide range of both professional and public service activities and received recognition for numerous achievements and contributions to the fields of clinical psychology, human resources, and nursing in the areas of leadership, training, community/public service, and direct clinical service.

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

MATT MOLLENHAUER

Matt is the Chief Clinical Officer for Chestnut Health Systems and former Managing Director of Chestnut Global Partners, LLC. He received his B.A. from Augustana College in Rock Island, IL, and his M.S. in Clinical Psychology from Illinois State University. He has over 34 years of experience in the human service and employee assistance field. As Chief Clinical Officer, Matt provides clinical leadership and direction to a highly dedicated and mission driven team of individuals who provide services in the areas of: chemical dependency treatment and prevention; behavioral health treatment and housing for persons with mental illness; and primary care treatment, dental and preventative services.

WANT TO BE FEATURED?

If you're an alumni from the Psychology Department and would like to share your story, your experiences in the department, or how the department helped prepare you for your career, we would love to hear from you!

Feel free to take this survey here, or email your headshot and short biography to psychology@ilstu.edu and we'll get you featured on our Alumni Profiles page of our website!

Questions to consider:

- Why did you choose ISU? Why psychology?
- How did the psych department prepare you for your career?
- What does alumni engagement mean to you?
- What's your favorite memory from the psych department?

Psychology Events

We enjoy finding ways to connect and learn together throughout the year. Here are some of the events sponsored by the department and ISU.

Transgender Resilience Colloquium

On November 12, 2025, the Department of Psychology and Queer Coalition co-sponsored the Transgender Resilience Colloquium, in which eight speakers from five departments presented on their research and artistic contributions related to transgender individuals' resilience. The event was attended by 41 faculty, staff, students, and community members across 15 departments.

Films and Events at the Normal Theater

This year the Department of Psychology co-sponsored special events and film screenings at The Normal Theater as a way to engage both the University and broader Bloomington-Normal community in shared learning experiences. The Department partnered with the ISU Queer Coalition to sponsor theater-based events such as Queer for Fear Live! (October 2025) which featured film scholar Heather O. Petrocelli and drag legend Peaches Christ (alter ego of filmmaker Joshua Grannell), as well as the Fired Up: The American AIDS Crisis on Film series (February 2026). The Department also co-sponsored a screening and panel discussion of The Harder They Come (March 2026). Faculty member Dr. Eric Wesselmann (BA '03, MA '05,) facilitated panel discussions and provided introductions for several of these events to highlight the social and psychological context for the films. The department co-sponsored the African American Studies Black History Month Film Festival, which included screenings of Becoming Thurgood: America's Social Architect (2025), The Black Power Mixtape 1967-1975 (2011), and The First Rainbow Coalition (2019) in February 2026. After each screening, a panel featuring Illinois State faculty engaged attendees in discussion of the film and its connection to the theme of resistance. Dr. Caitlin Mercier served as a panelist for two films. Dr. Brea Banks serves as the Director of the African American Studies program.

Lead staff Kelly Harman's art exhibit titled Oppression and Resilience was featured in the Rachel Cooper Art Gallery, hosted by Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The Department of Psychology co-hosted the artist reception for the exhibit held on May 4, 2026. The exhibit will be open from May-September, 2026.

ISU Research Symposium

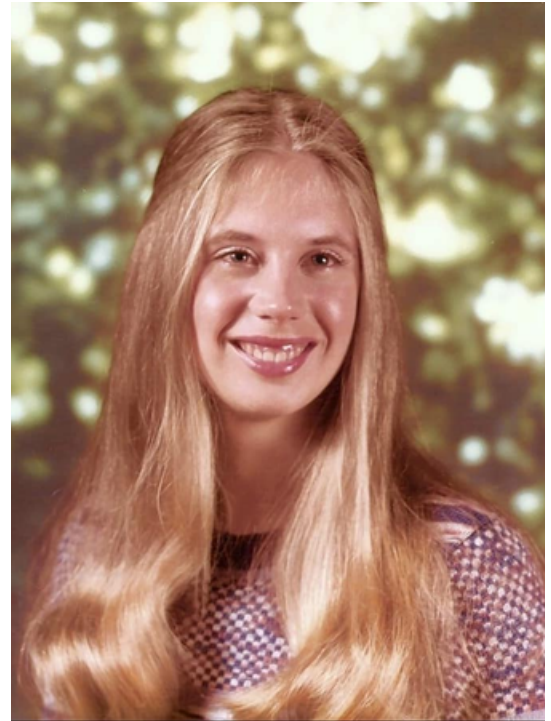

Psychology was well represented at the ISU Research Symposium held April 10, 2026. Many students and faculty also presented their research at regional, national, and international conferences this year. Please see pictures of psychology students and faculty at the symposium below.

Numerous psychology faculty, students, and staff also participated in the Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Student Research Symposium held on April 24, 2026.

Honoring Carol Rofstad

Illinois State University and the Department of Psychology awarded a posthumous bachelor of science degree in psychology to Carol Rofstad, presenting the diploma to her family in a ceremony on April 13th, 2026. Carol was attacked outside her sorority house and died on December 24, 1975. At the time, she was a senior psychology major at ISU. The case remains unsolved. A bench dedication honoring Carol was held in Redbird Plaza following the degree ceremony. Carol's family chose the location not only due to its proximity to DeGarmo Hall, which houses the Department of Psychology, but also because the area would be perfect for watching college life in a beautiful setting. May this bench be a reminder of Carol's dedication to her studies at Illinois State University and her love for her sorority, Delta Zeta.

Fifth Thursday Colloquium Series

The Department of Psychology held our inaugural Fifth Thursday Colloquium Series during 2025-2026 as a way to bring together faculty, staff, and undergraduate and graduate students to learn about a wide variety of relevant topics. Dr. S. Kristian Hill from Rosalind Franklin University presented, "Is Schizophrenia a Cognitive Illness?" in October. Ms. Danielle Beasley, Associate Director of Student Counseling Services presented, "Mental Health Matters" in January. Dr. Jeff Wagman presented, "Designing with Affordances in Mind: An Ecological Human Factors Study of Doors" in April, drawing on his recent sabbatical work. We plan to continue the series next year, hosting two events in October and April.

University Impact Awardees

Undergraduate and graduate students at Illinois State University nominated faculty, staff, and student leaders for 2026 Impact Awards. Recipients were nominated for showing exemplary support, care, and encouragement to their students, and a celebration was held in the Brown Ballroom of the Bone Student Center, when University College and the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost recognized and congratulated these individuals for their outstanding contributions to student success and first-year retention.

Please join us in congratulating the awardees from the ISU Department of Psychology for their significant contributions to our students:

Inaugural Psychology Impact Awardees 2025

To demonstrate appreciation to those who provide mentorship and support for our students, The Department of Psychology presented our first Psychology Impact Awards at the 2025 Alumni Day Award Ceremony. Awardees were nominated by our graduate program and sequence faculty and coordinators.

Clinical-Counseling Psychology: Bryan Hinman, Associate Director of Court Treatment Programs at Chestnut Health Systems. Bryan was honored for establishing valuable new 1st- and 2nd-year Clinical-Counseling practicum positions and undergraduate PSY internships.

Developmental Psychology: David Schel, Activist, Author, and Founder of 'Kids Against Divorce'. David is the author of "Without a Chair", a fictional book about an adolescent experiencing his parents' divorce. He generously provided free copies of the book and spoke with students in our Adolescent Development course. (not pictured)

Industrial/Organizational-Social Psychology: Josh Rohlfs, Principal Statistician, State Farm Insurance Companies. Josh is a frequent guest speaker in two of our I/O Psychology courses, sharing examples of applications of psychology to work settings.

School Psychology: Dr. Kristal Shelvin, Executive Director of Student Support, McLean County Unit 5 School District. Dr. Shelvin has been an outstanding contributor to the graduate programs in School Psychology, serving as dissertation committee member, research collaborator, and workshop presenter. SHARE YOUR STORY: BE FEATURED IN A PSYCHOLOGY STUDENT SPOTLIGHT!

Open to all undergraduate and graduate ISU Psychology students. Every psychology student has a unique story. We would love to help tell yours!

The Illinois State University Department of Psychology is launching a new Psychology Student Spotlight series to celebrate the incredible students who make up our community. Students have the chance to nominate themselves to be featured on our Instagram, Facebook, LinkedIn, website, and/or other department communications. We want to highlight your journey, accomplishments, interests, career goals, and the experiences that make you proud to be a Redbird and uniquely you.

Whether you've been involved in research, an internship, a student organization, leadership, volunteer work, or simply have a story you're proud to share, we encourage you to submit!

Scan the QR code to complete the ISU Psychology Student Spotlight survey and tell us your story. We can't wait to celebrate you!

Registered Student Organizations

PsiChi & SPA

BSPA

GASP

The Department of Psychology is proud to partner with our Registered Student Organizations, including the Student Psychology Association; Psi Chi, the International Honors Society in Psychology; Black Student Psychology Association; Graduate Association of School Psychology, and Psyched for Success.

PEER MENTORS

Our peer mentors continued to host office hours and meet with students in our Student Success Center, plan and host events to build a sense of belonging, and help with department events such as Open House Days, Redbird Days, Festival ISU, Cookies and Conversations, and Senior Sendoff.

CONGRATULATIONS, GRADUATES!

Congratulations, Graduates! We are Redbird Proud of our December 2025, May 2026, and August 2026 graduates from the Department of Psychology. Please check out a few pictures below.

BIRDS GIVE BACK

ISU's Birds Give Back Day of Giving on Feb. 26, 2026 was a success for the Department of Psychology and we sincerely thank everyone who donated to one of our projects this year!

This year, we raised funds for the Psychological Services Center, The Autism Project, and to support student travel to conferences. Across all three projects, we received $4,500 from 54 generous donors. Your contributions will have an important impact on our students, faculty, and the community throughout this upcoming year.

Please look for Birds Give Back 2027 information in your email inbox early next year and consider supporting our graduate and undergraduate programs. Thank you!
